SHOE CONCERN FAVORS SITE FOR FACTORY HERE

New York Company
Anxious to Locate
Plant in Non-Union
Town Because of Strikes.

Through the efforts of C. E. Sloane, former secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Gettysburg has what apparently is an excellent opportunity for the establishment of a shoe factory here. Although Mr. Sloane severed his connections with the local civic organization on October 1, he has nevertheless been active in endeavoring to bring the shoe industry to Gettysburg.

A representative of the concern, at present located in New York City, where the firm has been in business for 12 years, was in Gettysburg Friday, looking over the labor situation and possible buildings for the housing of the business.

A suitable building for the new enterprise was found by the New Yorker, who was informed that he probably would experience little difficulty securing male and female help, if the firm decided to locate here.

Wants Non-Union Town

The shoe manufacturer gave as his reason for desiring to move his business from New York the fact that since January 1, this year, he has passed through two strikes, necessitating complete shutting down of his plant for four months and the loss of over $12,000. He was especially anxious, he said, to locate in a non-union town.

The shoe factory, if located here, would employ about 75 men and women at the start, increasing to 125 as business demanded. The present plant in New York City employs 125 workers.

The plant would have a yearly payroll of $80,000, which would be increased within several years, it was stated, to between $150,000 and $200,000.

The firm at present is manufacturing children's shoes and its output is sold to jobbers.

Four towns in Pennsylvania are seeking to induce the New Yorker to bring his business to their communities, but he informed Mr. Sloane that of the four he preferred to locate in Gettysburg, if certain conditions can be met by the town.

About $10,000 Needed

To decide if the town can finance the transfer of the business to Gettysburg, the directors of the Chamber of Commerce will hold a special meeting, Monday evening. Mr. Sloane said the terms which the New York manufacturer specifies before moving here are less drastic and should be much easier to meet than those asked by the Newark Shoe Company, of Baltimore, which demanded $40,000 before it would establish a branch plant here.

While the exact demands of the New Yorker were not divulged, it was learned that the total sum necessary to secure the new industry for Gettysburg was approximately one-fourth of the amount demanded by the Baltimore concern.

37 CARLOADS OF APPLES SHIPPED

Adams County Packing Houses
Have Busy Week Taking Care
Of Demands for Fruit.

Apple loading on the Gettysburg and Harrisburg branch of the Reading Company reached a new record on Thursday, when thirty-seven cars were loaded at various points between Carlisle Junction and Gettysburg. Officials of the company say that not only has this exceeded the former peak carload figures for the season, but that the figures set up a new record for apple shipments in the Cumberland-Adams county apple belt.

During the greater portion of this week there were from twenty-five to thirty-five cars of apples shipped each day on this branch line. Some of the carloads of apples are turned over to the Pennsylvania Railroad at Carlisle and others to the Western Maryland at Shippensburg, for shipment to the South, while other consignments are brought over the Reading road to Harrisburg and then sent to Allentown, where they are shipped over the Central Railroad of New Jersey to points in New Jersey, New York and New England.

LIEUT. CHARLES BENTNER

Who although only thirty-six is the leader and director of the United States Navy Band, which will appear here in two concerts on Monday under the auspices of the Lions Club. The concert in the afternoon will be for the school students.

NAVY BAND WILL BE HERE MONDAY

Lieutenant Bentner One of Youngest Bandmasters in Service of United States.

The committee of the Lions club arranging for the appearance of the United States Navy Band here on Monday, when two concerts will be given in the Majestic Theatre, met Friday evening and completed final plans for the concerts.

The concerts were arranged by the Lions club as a civic entertainment and the members of the club stated that all of the proceeds received from the sale of tickets will be used to defray the expenses of the organization. The chart of tickets has been placed at Keet's Drug Store and a number of reservations have been made.

The band is in charge of Lieutenant Charles Bentner, U. S. N., who has been director of it since its organization. He is one of the youngest bandmasters in the country and has gained recognition for his services in building up the band by being appointed Lieutenant, Senior Grade, U. S. N., by an act of congress.

Critics agree that Lieut. Bentner's success with the famous military band he heads has been due in large degree to his keen study of the public mind and his appreciation of the exacting popular taste of which he speaks. He is keenly alive to the fact that the more exacting part of his public is not that which wants the heavy classical numbers, but is comprised of those who seek only diversion in a concert and demand the lilting airs and pulsequickening strains of modern jazz and musical comedy, while at the same time they react spontaneously to musical novelties. With this in mind he has so arranged his programs for the present concert tour that they make a great popular appeal. He presents selections from several of the reigning favorites in light opera, adaptations of the most recent ballad successes, and, at each concert, one or more numbers that are altogether unusual. The latter include novelties that have not been heard since the famous Gilmore's Band played them more than thirty years ago.

LETTER GRADING SYSTEM CLAIMED FAIRER TO PUPILS

Percentage Grades Discarded
Parent-Teachers Told At First Meeting Of Year.

The new system of letter grading instituted this fall in Gettysburg's public schools was explained by Lloyd C. Keefauver, supervising principal of schools, at the October meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association, Friday evening. The meeting, which was largely attended, was held in the auditorium of the new high school building, with Mrs. W. Raymond Shank, Buford avenue, president, in the chair.

The letters A, B, C, D and F are being urged to denote the pupil's grade instead of the old percentage system. The first four letters represent passing grades, although D is regarded as unsatisfactory and F signifies failure.

"The system of letter grading," Mr. Keefauver said, "is more flexible and consequently is fairer to the pupils than the old percentage basis of calculating grades. The good of the boys and girls is the first concern of the school authorities."

He extended a cordial welcome to all parents to visit the schools, but urged them to come before trouble arises. "Come in a pleasant frame of mind so that you may see what is being done for the boys and girls of the community," he continued, adding, "The schools welcome criticism but like to meet it face to face."

Miss Glee Baker, new supervisor of music, also invited the parents to visit the regular music lessons of the schools. Music is now a required course in the high school, the purpose being, she said, not to make musicians of all children, but to educate them to a love and appreciation of good music, "the universal language."

Miss Baker led the Seventh and Eighth grades in three selections which were well-rendered and well-received.

During the business session of the meeting, it was decided to devote the December and May meetings to the presentation of programs by children.

The next meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association will be held Friday evening, November 12, at the new high school building.

An enthusiastic reception was given Miss Thelma G. Stephens, representative of the John B. Rogers Producing Company, who will direct the play, "Fleur-de-lis," by the members of the Acorn Club at the first rehearsals for the play last evening. The musical comedy will be given in the Majestic Theatre on October 21.

The preliminary work of learning the music and some of the steps in the chorus and other dance acts was started and while no definite selections for the members of the cast have been made tentative parts for the play have been assigned for the first few rehearsals.

A number of new songs will be introduced into the show this year and special dance acts are being prepared by several members of the cast. Rehearsals in the dancing acts will be held each day at 4 o'clock in the legion hall.

A Suggestion

For the New Program of The Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce; Send Along
Some More.

Gettysburg, Pa.,
October 8th, 1926.
Editor, The Gettysburg Times,
Dear Sir:—

The decision of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce to return to the former method of operation by having one of their own number act as volunteer secretary instead of employing a "paid" secretary should in itself insure that organization of a successful year.

You ask for suggestions as regards policy. I shall attempt to give you my idea as to what the position of the Chamber of Commerce should be in Gettysburg.

There is a very definite need here for one organization to be the clearing house of all activities or projects that tend to better economic and business conditions in Gettysburg. There is a need for one organization to act as the unifying factor of all the various organizations and activities of the town.

The Chamber of Commerce is the one organization that is open to all lines of business and interests in the community. It therefore represents the community. The Rotary and Lions Clubs are entirely different in character. In other words, the Chamber of Commerce can carry on a program or an activity that would be entirely out of the sphere of either of the two service clubs here. However, that does not mean that when the Chamber of Commerce takes up a project it should have to go at it alone-handed for it would be within the sphere of other organizations to give the commerce organization support and be a coordinating factor.

A community is a business proposition. Let's say there are so many millions of dollars invested to make Gettysburg—or to create it. There are so many business men and individuals here depending on the success of the town for their own success. Then it follows that we are all partners in this great corporation. Partners must co-ordinate in their functions and in the development of their corporation. If it were private business it would be just so. Then why not consider the Chamber of Commerce as the coordinating factor of all of us partners in the town of Gettysburg?

We've got a lot to sell. We've got plenty of attractions and have certainly been favored by the gods. Let's take advantage of it! Take the Chamber of Commerce seriously and make it our business to get that organization going and producing to its maximum ability in our own interests.

It has been proven what we can do together and what we cannot do when we are not together. The Chamber of Commerce is nothing else but ourselves. If we criticize as a matter of course and do not support it we are hurting no one but ourselves. It takes more than money; it takes manpower.

I want to add that in my opinion the membership body has wisely selected in the election of the present board of directors. Likewise the directors made a good selection in their president H. Harold Miller. From any standpoint it cannot be claimed that any of the officers or directors have any selfish ends to gain. If they see enough value to the organization to "hang on" and carry on the work we should certainly see enough to warrant our time, efforts and memberships.

Let's get back of it. Make it the ONE organization here that can get things done. Fulfill its purpose in every degree and back it up.

Very truly yours,
ONE WITH RENEWED
FAITH AND INTEREST.

NEW $8,000 CLAIM AGAINST LYNCH COMES TO LIGHT

Columbia Flint Company, of Aspers, Gets Permission To Prosecute In Federal Court.

The suit of the Columbia Flint Company, of Aspers, against George W. Lynch, former proprietor of the Eagle Hotel, to recover $8,000 which has been pending in local courts the last two years, is to be carried to the federal courts to prosecute judgment, permission having been granted by Judge Donald P. McPherson.

The case grows out of supplying wood for the Marine camp in Gettysburg in 1918 for which Mr. Lynch had the contract, and purchased wood to the amount of $8,000 from the Columbia Flint Company, for which settlement had never been made, according to the prosecution.

Mr. Lynch's affairs were recently thrown into bankruptcy, which automatically makes the trustee a party to the suit, and makes the federal court the proper tribunal to prosecute judgment to liquidate the damages, it is pointed out. Mr. Lynch's liabilities were placed at about $33,000 and if a favorable ruling is obtained by the Columbia Flint Company in this case, the liabilities will be increased to more than $40,000, it is said.

The Columbia Flint Company will not have a preferred claim if judgment is sustained, but will merely become one of the creditors, along with 75 or more others caught when Mr. Lynch failed financially, it is pointed out.

The Columbia Flint Company is represented by John D. Keith and W. C. Sheely, the latter having been licensed to practice law recently before both the supreme court and the federal courts. Hersh and Walters have represented Mr. Lynch in the case.

GUIDES CONFINED TO 3 HIGHWAYS STATE NOW RULES

Parking Spaces Will Be Built by State Highway; Soliciting
From Road
Prohibited.

Work will be started Monday on the laying out and designating of parking spaces along three of the principal highways leading into Gettysburg on which guides may solicit tourists for trips over the battlefield.

This announcement was made at the local office of the state highway department today, together with the statement that battlefield guides will not be allowed to solicit tourists on any of the other state highways leading into Gettysburg beyond the borough limits.

The three stations at which guides may solicit tourists are along the Lincoln Highway, west of Stone avenue; along the Emmitsburg road, south of the Confederate avenue intersection, and along the Harrisburg road, north of Howard avenue.

To Erect Signs

Five hundred feet ahead of each guides' station a large wooden sign will be erected, calling tourists' attention to the parking space beyond, and at the parking space smaller signs will be set up directing the tourists to the places where they may secure guides.

The system of guides' stations was worked out by representatives of the highway department, the Gettysburg National Park office and the Gettysburg Battlefield Guides' Association, and is said to have met with the approval of the three agencies.

The guides' stations are the result of alleged unlawful solicitation by guides along the principal highways leading into Gettysburg, resulting in the highway department refusing to allow any guides to solicit tourists beyond the borough limits under penalty of prosecution.

Allowed Only In Spaces

Sufficient space has been provided at each of the stations for a number of cars to pull in off the highway. The station along the Emmitsburg road will be 135 feet long; the one along the Lincoln Highway, 180 feet, and that on the Harrisburg road, 65 feet.

Guides using the stations will not be allowed to solicit by word or sign, but must limit their activities to the cars which pull in off the main highways. This provision has been agreed to by the guides' association, and failure to abide by this ruling will result in the imposition of a fine, it was stated by highway department officials.

The signs to be erected 500 feet ahead of each parking zone will be of wood, measuring five by nine feet, in the shape of keystones, attractively painted, and bearing the words:

"Gettysburg Battlefield Official Guides' Station 500 Feet Ahead. Park to Right. Department of Highways."

At the beginning of the parking zone, signs 2½ by 1½ feet will carry the words "Parking Zone." These also will be keystone-shaped.

To Surface Spaces

The state highway department will improve the land to be used for the parking zones, using stone chips, with a top dressing of oil, making them solid in wet weather. Fills and cuts will be made by the highway department in laying out the stations.

The cost of building the stations and erecting the signs to designate them will be borne by the highway department and the guides' association proportionately.

The stations have been located where they can readily be seen by tourists approaching Gettysburg, and where there is the least danger of accidents for cars entering or leaving the parking zones.

Work on the guides' stations will be rushed, it was stated at the highway department, so that they can be ready for use this fall.

The new stations are expected to meet with favor among the guides who have habitually solicited tourists along the highways in the vicinity where the parking zones will be established and maintained, although they will be unable to solicit the tourists until the latter drive into the parking space.

The same system of "strikes" now used by guides who work in groups may be employed at the stations so that no one guide will be favored or any one mistreated.

EX-DRAGON WILL APPEAR IN COURT

Stephenson Will Tell of Corruption in Indiana Politics Following Charges.

Indianapolis, Oct. 9.—Superior Court Judge Miller yesterday ordered D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, now serving a life sentence in the state prison at Michigan City, brought to Indianapolis.

Stephenson is wanted here to testify in receivership proceedings against the Hoosier Tailors, Inc., a company in which he was financially interested.

Efforts to gain access to Stephenson at the state prison have been made unsuccessfully for several days by Thomas H. Adams, Vincennes publisher, who contends the former Klan leader is ready to surrender evidence in corroboration of Adams' charges of corruption in Indiana politics.

Although Stephenson may be questioned only on the receivership case, Adams and his colleagues, who have been conducting an investigation into alleged corruption, believe that when Stephenson is outside the penitentiary he will find an opportunity to make revelations concerning the power he says he exercised over politicians.

Governor Jackson asserted yesterday there would be a complete investigation of all accusations of corruption among public officials.

"We will go to the bottom of this whole thing before it is ended," the governor told newspapermen who questioned him regarding Adams' allegations.

The governor pointed out that Arthur L. Gilliom, State's Attorney, and the Marion County prosecuting attorney, William H. Remy, had indicated their willingness to go into the matter.

ARMY STRENGTH NOW AT 110,345

Washington, Oct. 9.—The Army's enlisted strength had fallen today to 110,345 men, 8405 below the pay strength and 14,655 under the authorized strength.

The reduction is attributed directly to the recruiting stop order which became effective September 15. That was issued to avoid a heavy threatened deficiency in funds appropriated by Congress for pay and subsistence during the current fiscal year.

As the situation now stands, limited recruiting will start Monday and be so regulated as to insure as nearly as possible the 110,900 average until July, which is the end of the fiscal year.

And That's That

We quote from yesterday's Times: LEGION POST TO HOLD BANQUET ARMISTICE DAY Widely Known Humorist May be Secured to Speak at Celebration.

Our desk, this morning, is covered with letters asking if we are to be "the widely known humorist" and what our subject will be. As yet, we have not been approached by the legion concerning this matter so perhaps there is another humorist,—say Donald O. Stewart or Irvin Cobb that is widely known also.

And while we are discussing the TIMES, and since we are still on the second page, we want to call attention to another story of some interest in yesterday's paper.

It seems that a Mr. Ostrum has been elected to some office in the local American Automobile Association. The TIMES' account of the election said: "Mr. Ostrum will be remembered as author of several prize winning plays of the Owl and Nightingale Club."

We fail to see the connection between writing plays for the Owl and Nightingale Club and running automobiles unless it might be that both are run by "gas."

But even if Mr. Ostrum has written prize winning plays for the Night and Owlingale Club we don't think it is fair to hold that against him now. We have never been in favor of holding a man's past against him.

For example, we wrote a little play not long ago entitled "Hill's Coffee Shoppe." We are therefore able to sympathize with Mr. Ostrum because it has been held against us and we are getting hungry. Perhaps it would be best for us to offer an apology right here, for the girls who "used to wait" on us won't even speak to us now.

We have tried other "joins" in the village and we are sure we would rather eat at Hill's and not have the girls there speak to us than eat where the other two sisters work and have them speak to us.

No doubt we will eat at Mr. Hill's tomorrow. We'll walk in and smile our very best "good morning." In fact, we are feeling so repentive today we might even ask Mr. Snyder to eat with us.

But we forgot Mr. Ostrum. We are sincerely glad that he writes plays. It is to be hoped that he will write a play for this column. It is a difficult task for one of our nature to fill this column "each and every" day. It should be no trouble for one who has written plays for the Nightingale and Owl Club.

WE HAVE BEEN INFORMED THAT THE COLLEGE WILL HAVE A SCOREBOARD IN PLACE ON THE FOOTBALL FIELD IN TIME FOR THE ROANOKE GAME.

Many letters have come in concerning the JOHN RUTH MEMORIAL FUND. Some of Gettysburg's outstanding citizens have sent in donations and suggestions.

Among the donations we found two bags of onions with a suggestion "that a statue of John Ruth be erected with these onions as they are symbolic." Mr. Johnny Moloney wrote us rather a lengthy letter which we hope to publish in Monday's column. He had many concrete constructive suggestions that we feel sure the Chamber of Commerce will be glad to get.

As was to be expected, the JOHN RUTH BETTERMENT DRIVE, in its effort to clean up the slums and bad politics of this city, has been attacked.

We have gone to great expense to secure detectives to run down and expose some corruptions in the city management. The drive committee deserves the hearty support of all good citizens of Gettysburg. No matter what unexpected turns may come up or who may be exposed we hope the committee will continue at its work determinedly.

Since the football team is away today and nothing of interest going on at the college we would suggest that the committee investigate the letter sent in to The Times from "A Merchant" suggesting that outstanding speakers be secured for festive occasions in 1927.

Why should we have any more trouble to live-down by having wind-jammers come to Gettysburg? What would they speak about? Whom would they speak to? Who would listen to them? Where would they speak? Why would they speak? How would they speak?

Why not use some of the local talent. John Moloney could speak before the Business Men's Association of the United States on the subject, "The Renaissance of Big Business."

Perhaps we might be secured to speak on "The World's Best Critic and How I Got There." Then when the Bricklayers' Association of America comes to town we

"MAN THE ARMY" PERSHING URGES

Warns of Future Wars and Necessity For "Fighting Nucleus" in Times of Peace.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—Man the army, demanded General Pershing in a speech here Friday night at a banquet of the Military Order of the World War.

He warned of future wars and said further reductions in the army personnel would impair the safety of the country.

"The world is not yet free from jealousy and covetousness," he said. "And the situation demands the maintenance of a highly developed nucleus for national defense."

It was the first time General Pershing publicly had entered the military training controversy which has been agitating Washington during the last year.

General Pershing said only a "vociferous minority" was opposed to a preparedness plan and added:

"There can be no earthly justification for saving a few million dollars a year on the army during peace if, as a consequence, we must spend many billions in an emergency in an attempt to make up deficiencies."

"The difference between an adequate and inadequate system is not sufficient to warrant the risk. There is a point below which we cannot go without most serious results, and we have reached that point."

He took time to criticize the too-busy citizens who have allowed a breakdown in law enforcement.

"It is not to our credit that an unusual condition of lawlessness exists in our country today," he told the veterans. "High-handed criminals escape the law and go unpunished. Officials elected by the people fail in the enforcement of law."

AUTOS KILL 16 A DAY IN U. S.

4168 Fatalities Reported From 78 Cities For First Nine Months of 1926.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Deaths from automobile accidents in seventy-eight of the principal cities of the United States totaled 4168 during the first thirty-six weeks of 1926. This is an average, the Commerce Department reported today, of more than sixteen deaths a day and is equivalent to an annual death rate of 18.9 for every 100,000 persons.

There was a considerable variation from month to month in the number of fatalities. Starting with 431 in the January Period, the total fell off to a minimum of 347 in March, increased to 549 for the four weeks ending June 19, was lower for the next two periods and increased to a maximum of 650 in the month ending September 11.

Of the thirty-three largest cities, Kansas City, Kansas, with an estimated population of 117,000, had the lowest mortality rate per 100,000 population, with only one fatality for the thirty-six weeks for a death rate of 1.2, while Indianapolis had the highest, fifty-nine fatalities for a death rate of 23.3. Some of the fatalities occurred outside the cities' corporate limits.

$20,000 FORTUNE AWAITS WANDERER

(By Associated Press.)
Pittsburgh, Oct. 9.—A $20,000 inheritance is waiting to be claimed by Miss Helen Ondeck, 22, of McKees Rocks, near here, who ran away from home in September, 1922, because she resented her mother's strict surveillance over her.

When the mother died she left her entire estate to the runaway girl. The other older children were ignored. Police throughout the country have been asked to seek the girl and apprise her of her fortune.

MISS BERCAW IS WED AT READING

The marriage of Miss Mary Bercaw, daughter of W. G. Bercaw, of Gettysburg, to Lieut. A. Bruce Hedrick, of Billings, Montana, took place October 5 in Reading. They were married in the parsonage of the Bethany United Evangelical church by the Rev. D. P. Longsdorf.

Miss Bercaw was employed as a stenographer for the Board of Education in Washington, D. C., while Mr. Hedrick is employed in the U. S. government. They will make their future home in the West.

could put on a pageant demonstrating the uselessness of an education. The play would be entitled "Why Get An Education?" No doubt a big demonstration of approval could be worked up with little or no trouble by asking the college students to participate.

First of all the Bricklayers could be shown the residences of the faculty. If some of them still felt they wanted to get an education they could be quickly disillusioned by an introduction or two.

DRIVERS INJURED AT YORK RACES

Six Horses Collide During Heat When One Stumbles; Two Jockeys Badly Hurt.

Six horses and sulkies piled up on the race track at the York Fair during a harness race yesterday when one of the lead horses stumbled and fell while taking a turn. Three of the six drivers were injured, two seriously. The majority of the crowd of 35,000 saw the spill.

Hollywood Mark, with E. J. McGrath in the driver's seat, fell at the northern end of the track and five other horses collided with the fallen horse.

Driver Horton, who was handling Sonoma Brooks, was thrown from his seat and kicked in the head by a horse. He and Titus L. Kaltreider, of Red Lion, were taken to the York hospital in a truck. Kaltreider was driving his General Knight.

Woodrow L. the Hanover Shoe Company's entry, was in the lead at the time of the accident and was the only horse to finish the race. One of the horses which figured in the accident continued to run around the track driverless and could not be stopped until Jack Joyce, former cowpuncher, now a horse trainer, captured him from horseback.

Kaltreider is reported at the hospital to be the most seriously injured. He is suffering from several fractured bones as well as other injuries. Horton, the other driver taken to the hospital, is a native of Port Jefferson, L. I., and is 59 years old. He was driving a horse owned by the Otto Peneloff Stables, Brooklyn. McGrath, the third driver injured, was taken to the stables where his injuries were dressed.

Several of the horses were also injured. It was necessary to help them from the tangle of harness and sulkies. The crowd at yesterday's fair meeting has been estimated at 35,000 persons. Several raids on alleged crooked games being conducted on the midway were made and the operators forced to leave the grounds.

Auto races, for which there were twelve entries, were held today.

CHRYSLER SETS CAR CRITERION

Improvements Brought Out In First Car, Have Revolutionized Motordom.

A study of the motor car of today reveals the continued far-reaching influence that Chrysler has exerted on all types of motor cars. That company, nearly three years ago, pioneered a score or more of fundamental and revolutionary improvements which are consistently being adopted—some in one car, others in another. Moreover, continuously since its first car, Chrysler has added numerous other features, in keeping with its policy of maintaining leadership.

The company points out that it introduced the car which first combined the abilities of 70 miles and more per hour, acceleration of 5 to 25 miles in 74 seconds and a gasoline economy of better than 20 miles per gallon. Its model "70", it declares, is still the only car that enjoys this combination.

On the first car the company produced, appeared as standard equipment the oil filter, now widely accepted throughout the industry; thermostat engine heat control new in cars of this price class; heat indicator on the dash, known as the radiator, and the air cleaner, restricting all dirt and dust from the engine, and assisting to eliminate carbon.

Scientific fuel distribution in the first Chrysler was achieved by designing each cylinder to receive identical charges of gas vapor at identical temperatures, with its resulting fuel economy, power evenness and flashing pick-up. To facilitate cold weather starting and minimize crankcase dilution, the engineers introduced the electrical fumer. Manifold heat control, another pioneer step, makes for continued better operation. Its more convenient light control—integral with the horn button—has been widely used. Likewise the indirect lighting of the instrument board and gasoline gauge on dash, which it first introduced as standard equipment.

Late in 1925 its engineers found, after long testing, that a high grade steel alloy, Invar, made an ideal strut for pistons, enabling them to be fitted closely and permitting them to combine the advantage of both aluminum and cast iron pistons without the disadvantage of either. Pistons with Invar struts are now used on the "60", the "70" and Imperial "80". This Chrysler innovation is being elsewhere adopted.

The first Chrysler advanced an entirely new body design, a compact yet roomy car, combining comfort and driving ease without wasteful weight or extravagant size. Dynamic symmetry of design in the motor car body, which calls for smoothly flowing curves throughout the length of its construction, is an adaptation of the principles of descriptive geometry to motor car design, never before then heard of.

The vogue of the roadster is another distinct Chrysler contribution. Chrysler popularized the roadster by building a car in duotone that appealed to the public as a "lively, get-up-and-go" car. It also popularized the rumble seat, as well as unison seats in this type car.

AMERICAN BUS ON TRIAL TO ARCTIC

Pohjoismaiden Auto Tuonti—No matter what this combination of words may seem to mean to you it really is the name of a company dealing in automobiles in Finland. This company decided recently to drive a Reo bus from Abo on the Baltic Sea to Pitkajärvi, the most northern point reached by a Finland highway. Beyond lie the Arctic Ocean and continual ice.

On the morning of July 21 the bus left Abo and steadily traveled north along the shore of the Gulf of Bothnia until at Kemi the route headed directly toward the Arctic Ocean. The Kemyoki River was crossed at Ruomemi and from the hill called Ounasvaara, back of the town, could be seen the splendor of the mid-night sun. The Arctic Circle was entered at Apukka and from there on for 420 kilometers or 255 miles the bus was in the polar regions until the end of the trail was reached at the little village of Pitkajärvi. From there on it was dog sleds or nothing.

The trip was in the nature of a test of reliability under actual Finland road conditions for a sustained period and the bus came through with a perfect score. Various weather conditions were encountered from mild nippy air to the severe cold of the frozen north, but no mechanical adjustments were made, no repairs needed, demonstrating fully the feasibility of motor transportation and the dependability of the American made motor bus.

No attempt at speed was made and an average of 29 kilometers or 18 miles per hour was maintained for the entire trip which was excellent considering the roads. At the different villages stops were made to exhibit the bus and the folks crowded around to see the vehicle made in far away America.

The return from the northern point was made in six days and the bus arrived at Abo on August 3, with all the passengers enthusiastic for bus transportation and ready to praise the easy riding qualities of the Reo. The actual time was 290½ hours and the road running time 102 hours and 10 minutes. The distance covered was 2987 kilometers or 1856 miles.

OVERLAND MAKES SALES RECORD AFTER PRICE DROP

Following the drastic cut in prices announced on the Overland Six and on the Whippet during September, sales reports from all parts of the country show a greatly increased volume of business with the Overland Six outstripping any previous sales records according to a statement from Crescent Auto Company.

With the drop in prices, all models on this chassis were brought below the $1000 price mark despite the fact that in general dimensions, this product of Willys-Overland is the largest car in the light six classification.

Production plans in the Overland division of Willys-Overland contemplate the largest output ever achieved at this time of the year to take advantage of the pronounced increase in sales which followed the Whippet announcement in June and which has been maintained through the new price announcements.

With the first two months of the second half of this year, the largest number of units delivered, in the history of the organization and with incomplete figures for September indicating that the pace established during the summer will be maintained, the close of 1926 is on the way to becoming the largest six months period Willys-Overland has ever experienced. The fact that the DeLuxe model sedan of the Overland Six line, which is a four door enclosed car of the highest type in body construction and finish, is now being offered at a mark below $1000 may be taken as the forerunner of interesting developments in the general price situation among the contenders in the light six field.

The competition in this highly popular division of the four great groups of motor cars has been intense during the past year and attractive offerings have been presented.

Previous to the recent price drop, the price position occupied by the Overland Six was held as consistent with other values in the field. With $120 slashed off this figure on the DeLuxe model this popular car has been brought within the buying range of thousands of users who have hitherto been restricted to cars in a lower price range than that occupied by this sedan.

CHEV MOTOR IS SHIP'S AUXILIARY

Pacific Liner Carries 4 Cylinder Motor in Case of Emergency If Lighting Plant Fails.

Not satisfied with playing a leading role on land, the automobile motor has now taken up a career at sea.

Away upon the sundeck of the steamship President Lincoln, which sailed recently from San Francisco for the Orient, is an iron cabin—the loftiest place on the ship. It is water-proof, water tight and strongly built to protect its contents from sea and weather. Inside and out, the house is neat and ship-shape and the chief engineer is the only person aboard with a key to its lock.

This cabin known as the auxiliary room houses an electric power plant operated by a Chevrolet motor, for emergency use only.

In case of an accident should everything else on shipboard fail or be below water this motor generates electricity for the wireless set and for lights around the life boats. It is one thing that passengers and crew may depend upon in case of disaster, for as long as there is a spar above water the auxiliary will function. It is entirely independent of the ship's regular machinery and will operate without interruption, supplying current for distress calls and strong light for launching the small boats.

While in these days the possibility of a disaster at sea is practically nil, the auxiliary room gives an added feeling of security. Chief Electrician T. Armstrong of the President Lincoln opens up the little cabin once a week to test the emergency rig.

This feature of modern steamship travel indicates the degree of perfection to which automobile motors have been developed. It is nothing short of marvelous that those faltering pieces of mechanism which first propelled automobiles less than three decades ago, have been so perfected as to be selected now to serve as lifesavers in case all else fails.

WHIPPET

Six hundred and twenty miles, over the Allegheny Mountains, under the handicap of driving rain and slippery roads, on twenty-one and one-sixth gallons of gas, at an average gas consumption of twenty-nine and one-half miles to the gallon.

And it was not a speed or an economy contest. Just an ordinary performance of the ruggedness of the Whippet, the sturdiness of its construction, its remarkable acceleration, its four-wheel brake responsiveness, its practical roadability under most adverse conditions—one that any driver could duplicate in any Whippet Car.

No attempt was made to exceed the legal speed. Captain Anthony Landers, of the Keystone Automobile Club, the official observer, saw to that. Both Captain Landers and "Chick" Murray, the driver (breaker of three world's records—Endurance, Gasoline and Oil Economy Consumption, made in the same Whippet Car), had strict orders from Edwin B. Jackson, of Edwin B. Jackson, Inc., 1629 Arch street, against speeding or operating the car in a reckless manner.

This remarkable run was made Tuesday, September 28th. The car checked out at 12:01 A. M., by Western Union Official Time. Pittsburgh was reached at 10:40 A. M. Fifty-five minutes later the Whippet Sedan started back. At 11:10 P. M., just twenty-three hours and nine minutes from the time the little car left Philadelphia, it was back again. The actual running time was nineteen hours and two minutes.

A marvelous performance that proves the Whippet's qualities—Sturdy Construction, Easy-riding Comforts, Quick Pick-Up, Power to easily negotiate mountains, Safety, as proven by the Four-Wheel Brakes.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

1st FOR 9 Consecutive Years

For the ninth consecutive year Buick has won first choice of space at the National Automobile Shows.

This is Leadership! For this honor goes annually to the member of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce with the year's largest volume of business.

Chance plays no part in this award. It is conferred upon the car which has found the most favor among the buyers of America—the car in which they have invested a plurality of their dollars.

It has gone to Buick every year since 1918 because Buick has built better motor cars, and continually put back the savings of increased volume and engineering development into still greater value.

Nine continuous years of leadership! For any other car to equal this would mean retaining continuous leadership until 1936—almost another decade.

The industrial history of America records no more brilliant achievement than these nine successive years of Buick dominance.

HUP STAMINA IS SHOWN IN RUNS

Hupmobile has had a most successful year in the European as well as South African road racing competition winning five important contests in which the entries included the prominent makes of both American and foreign cars, according to correspondence from the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, to William F. Codori, Sr., Hupmobile representative in this section.

"Long endurance runs are a favored sport in these countries," Mr. Codori states. "They attract the attention of the motorists in the United States particularly because these contests have not been popular here for many years despite the fact that our road conditions are far superior to those in the territories here where the most exciting races are staged."

"One race won by a Hupmobile Six with five passengers in the car took place in South Africa. The distance was five hundred miles and in winning Hupmobile demonstrated its fitness to stand up under the hardest tests. On part of the 500 mile route, roads (as we know them) are practically nonexistent, and the climate very trying both on the driver and on the car mechanism. The greatest hazard is sand. There are several kinds, yellow river sand, red sand, light and heavy sand. The Hupmobile six pulled through all of this without balking even in crossing the dunes of loose red sand or river beds of heavy yellow sand with hidden stones to make it worse. In winning this race H. P. Rose, driver of the car, won the Grand National Cup and other prizes for leading at different stages of the run."

"Greece has also taken to automobile racing. It was expected that they would since the people there were the originators of the contest and have always been ardent devotees to sporting games. As they formerly tested athletic and physical prowess they now test the endurance of motors. The first official race sanctioned by the Greek Touring Club was staged between Athens and Monemvasia and return a distance of 700 Kilometers (437 1/2 miles) and a Hupmobile stock car took first place over a large field of the finest cars."

"The fact that the cars over which both Hupmobile models won victories are selling at a higher price makes our showing more outstanding. This racing car stamina is built into every car and that is why we find the cars giving satisfaction in foreign countries as well as America."

18 Years

of Finer Manufacturing

Back of the Unsurpassed Dependability of The Hupmobile

The Hupmobile Six which is sweeping onward to ever-growing success today, is heir to a richer heritage of quality and fine engineering and workmanship than any other automobile outside the highest priced field.

For 18 years Hupmobile has built to standards comparable to those in the field of highest priced cars.

Never for a single moment has it deviated to so much as a hair's breadth from the most rigid requirements.

It sets up the highest standards—and then makes sure that those standards are strictly adhered to.

Hupmobile pays 10 per cent more for inspection to make sure of Hupmobile Six quality—but that extra precaution saves the owner of a Hupmobile Six many times the additional cost.

Hupmobile Six a Leader Also, In Complete, Modern Equipment

What goes into a motor car is vastly more important than what goes on it. You will not buy, of course, on mere externals and non-essentials, but on proven performance, dependability, long life, and low cost of maintenance. To superiority in these fundamentals, however, the Hupmobile Six also joins the later and most complete equipment to be found on any car in its price class.

1. Oil filter. 2. Gasoline filter—low gasoline consumption. 3. Thermostatic heat control. 4. Snubbers. 5. Vision-ventilating windshield. 6. Dash gasoline gauge. 7. Clear vision bodies. 8. Color options—Mohair upholstery in latest mode. 9. Walnut grained panels on instrument board and window ledges. 10. 4-wheel brakes. 11. Special vibration damper. 12. Headlights with tilting beam lenses and double filament bulbs.

Sedan, five-passenger, four-door, $1385. Coupe, two-passenger, with rumble seat, $1385. Touring, five-passenger, $1325. Equipment includes 30 x 5.25 balloon tires, four-wheel brakes. All prices f. o. b. Detroit, plus revenue tax.

And it pays Hupmobile. For the brilliant success everywhere of the Hupmobile Six is directly due to Hupmobile reputation—a good name and a public confidence founded upon Hupmobile high manufacturing standards.

The Hupmobile Six offers you performance that in smoothness, in acceleration, in steadiness at high speeds, cannot, we believe, be equalled outside the field of sixes over $2,000.

It offers you a big, full-sized, beautiful car, delightfully easy of control, and exceedingly economical of operation.

But more than this, it offers you dependability and low cost maintenance that cannot be unexcelled by any Six for any price—the fruit of 18 years of unflinching adherence to highest quality standards.

The NEW FINER

CHRYSLER "70"

New Lower Prices—

Presenting a New Influence on all Motoring for Years to Come

Newer, more distinctive silhouette—
Newer, more exquisitely graceful bodies—
Newer, exclusive style of military front and cadet visor on enclosed models—
Newer luxury of comfort with deeper and softer cushions—
Newer, greater riding ease, with exclusive no-side-sway vanadium springs, Watson stabilizers and extra-size full balloon tires, mounted on newly-designed smaller wheels—
Newer richness of interior upholstery. Finer hardware and fittings with a handsome clock added to the newly beautified instrument panel—
Newer refinements in controls and headlamps—
Newer, more attractive blendings in body tones, with newer and subtler harmonies in stripings and panelings.

Again, with the new, finer Chrysler "70", Chrysler creates a distinctive departure in design and a new measure of value for an industry to follow. Today, while attempts are still made to match the first

Chrysler standards of performance and symmetry originated three years ago, the new, finer Chrysler "70" excels the charm and smartness of its older self, just as that older self relegated the earlier conceptions of motor car beauty and performance to oblivion.

With its new vibrant beauty, joined to energetic and vivacious performance, unapproached economy, proved dependability and long life—at prices which register a distinct enhancement of motor car value—the new, finer Chrysler "70" leaves today's trend as far behind as the original "70" advanced the styles of three years ago.

Come in. See this new Chrysler "70" beauty today—experience its new measure of comfort—combined with a performance which an entire industry for three years has failed to approach.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

THE HIGH COST OF IMPROVEMENTS

We left the men to build a room,
A simple sun room on our place
Wherein a plant or two might bloom
To give the home a touch of grace.
Now here at Pointe Aux Barques we stay

Flooded by bills which we must pay.
Perplexed we sit and sadly sigh
And wonder what it is they've built.
Is it a castle towering high?

With glistening cupolas of gilt?
Or have they tacked upon our home
Some ancient masterpiece of Rome?

I think by all the bills which come
That Michael Angelo they've hired
To build that small solarium
And give the extra space required,
Or Phidias they've called upon
To duplicate the Parthenon.

I ordered but a simple room
And fancied that I knew the cost,
But shrouded now I sit in gloom,
All hope for solvency is lost.
They said they'd build a sun room
small,

I'm paying for a city hall.

Little Jack Rabbit

By David Cory

How did we end the last story, Little Reader? Was Mr. Gray Toad in Lady Love's flower garden? Of course he was, and now I remember that the little rabbit had carried him there in his khaki cap.

"I'm glad to see him again," said the little rabbit's mother. "He has been a great help all summer. He has eaten more flies, bugs and caterpillars than I can count. Yes, indeed, toads are a great help to the flowers."

"Thank you, Ma'am," said Fatty Toad. "Would you mind scratching my back very gently with a stick?"

"Ha, ha!" laughed the little rabbit. "Watch him grunt and swell with satisfaction."

By and by, after a while, he hopped away and when the little rabbit went to look for him, he couldn't find him for some time. Then all of a sudden a thin, high voice called out:

"It's time I made my winter home. The days are growing cold, and so I've dug a little hole beneath the grassy mold."

"Where are you?" asked the bunny boy, looking here and looking there. But he couldn't find Fatty Toad. No, sir.

"Over here by the big stone," cried the thin, high voice. Sure enough when a hop or two brought the bunny boy to the spot, all he could see was Fatty Toad's head above the ground.

"I'll soon have a deep hollow below the frost line," chuckled the old gray toad. "And there I'll sleep safely till springtime comes again. Yes, I'm growing sleepy."

Goodness me, the old toad's hind legs were busy digging out the earth, and slowly the hole grew deeper and deeper and by and by the old fellow was out of sight.

"Don't forget to come out next spring," shouted the little rabbit. But Fatty Toad made no answer. Maybe he was already asleep and only when Mistress Spring and all her little balmy breezes came tripping over the grassy would he push up out of the ground to blink again at the great wide world.

"Dear me, Mother," cried the bunny boy. "Everybody seems to be getting ready for winter. The birds have flown south, at least, most of them, and many of my little four-footed friends are busy storing away food."

Just then who should come hopping up the winding path but the Three Merry Grasshoppers and Tiny Miss Chickadee.

"Welcome, little friends," cried sweet Lady Love. "Have you come to spend the winter in our woodbox?"

"Yes, the nights are growing chilly, and the days no longer warm. We'll be happy in the woodbox and up the little back porch steps they hopped and into the kitchen.

"Here they come," chirped the pretty canary bird. "Now we'll have more music. Three fiddlers and one little singer."

Yes, every year when the weather grew cold back to the little white house in the dear Old Bramble Patch came these four little people, and in return for Lady Love's kindness, they sang and played all through the winter time, making happy music in the little rabbit's home.

SUNBURY CLAIMS ELECTRIC HONORS

Sunbury, Pa.—Sunbury at last claims proof of its title to be the birthplace of electric light—and it cites Thomas A. Edison as the authority.

Contenders for the honor have arisen in a number of other cities, but Sunbury felt safe in its claim because four years ago Mr. Edison was here when a table was unveiled on the City Hotel, designating it as the first building in the world to be lighted with electricity.

Recently while on a visit to this part of the state, Mr. Edison was asked which of several towns in Central Pennsylvania claiming the honor was entitled to it, and he replied that it was Sunbury, with Bellefonte the second place to use electricity for lighting purposes.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my two dear children, Olive Pearl, who departed this life January 1, 1902, and Chester LeRoy, who departed this life, October 9th., 1923. Born but to die, received the call that comes to all.

Just called dear Olive, as the sun had risen on New Year's Day.

Oh, dear LeRoy, three sad years have come and gone,
And yet your memory lingers still,
How sad and lonely is my home
Since my dear boy has gone.

Oh, how I long to see your smiling face,
And to clasp hands never to part again,
On the sunny banks of Paradise,
On that bright and golden shore.

Good help us to be submissive,
And to bow to His great will,
For we know that all things work together
For good to those who do His will.

By their mother,
Mrs. Florence Wilson.

UPPER END NEWS NEELY FASHION

Publisher of The Comet Has Style All His Own to Please Readers.

Editorial Note:—J. Harvey Neely, editor and publisher of the York Springs Comet, picks up some interesting news "along the way" which he uses in his newsy weekly under that heading, written in a breezy and interesting style. For instance, the following is gleaned from the current issue of The Comet:

Samuel J. Barnett, for a long period owner and publisher of the Delta Herald and Times, has sold his paper to Frank D. Covery, of Bridgeport, Ohio, who took possession last Friday. Three of the children, two sons and a daughter, of the late Mrs. Melissa Beitman, of York Springs, learned the rudiments of the printing trade under Mr. Barnett while the family resided at Delta. They are Custer A. of Baltimore; Thos. and Miss Hortense Beitman, of Philadelphia.

Adams county farmers and fruit men wish that they had the services of Aladdin and his wonderful lamp to change their large apple crop into potatoes during the next couple of weeks.

There used to be a saying that you could reach a certain place in "three hops and a jump." The first part was demonstrated Sunday by Lloyd Gibbs, who left left Plainfield, New Jersey, that morning on foot and in three rides or "hops" reached his home in York Springs. He had arrived at Plainfield the previous day after spending the past summer at a boys' camp at Lake Fairlee, Vermont. When he left Vermont on Thursday the thermometer registered at the freezing point, 32 degrees.

Bobby Fair, who is associated with his father, Gilbert Fair, in the stove and tinware business in York Springs, is learning how to carry a baby daughter that arrived at his home Wednesday. Mrs. Fair before marriage was Helen Fohl and she and the newest York Springs resident are doing nicely.

The "missus" will be glad when the world series ends for she believes that safe and sane conversation will again be resumed in the editor's home after this week. Two weeks ago it was talk of the big fight that bored her and now it is baseball. Cheer up, Bessie, the hunting season is at hand, which presents a never ending subject for conversation among us men folks.

Instead of sitting around knocking and saying the younger generation was going to the bow wows the people of Bendersville got busy this past summer and provided a place for those of all seven ages to hold occasional social functions. In making extensive repairs to the Centenary M. E. church in that place the installation of a social room was included. This room is provided with folding chairs, dishes, tables, stove, sink, etc., and will be used for socials, banquets and suppers. The cost of improvements to the church were about $1200 and this amount and $300 besides was raised at dedicatory services held last Sunday. Rev. Henry Kiesel, of York Springs, is pastor of this church and the dedicatory sermon last Sunday was preached by Rev. Edwin L. Eslinger, of Waynesboro.

Adams county girls will be interested in the statement that Gene Tunney will not marry until he has achieved ambition and is ready to quit his pugilistic career. He is said to have very decided views on the sort of a girl he will marry. She must have

License For Roadside Lodging Houses Urged

Following on the heels of many complaints received during the 1926 touring season in regard to the poor quality of food and accommodations given by many of the farm houses and boarding houses catering to motor tourist travel along the highways, the American Automobile Association, of which the Gettysburg Motor Club is a part, has issued a statement declaring that the state health authorities must extend their licensing and supervision to such places in the interest of public health and safety.

The complaints which prompted the A. A. A. investigation and today's statement came from every section of the country, it having been found that there is everywhere along the highways places offering tourist accommodations that are in no way equipped to give a standard of service that safeguards health requirements.

The A. A. A., said the statement, fully recognizes that the growth of motor touring in recent years has created a demand for lodgings along the highways. It is equally clear, however, that many undesirable places have gone into this type of catering and to make the matter worse "Gyp" outfits encourage such places by selling them signs and picturing lots of easy money.

Houses Not Healthful

"In too many instances," said Thomas P. Henry, president of the A. A. A., "these boarding houses do not come up to the minimum requirements of the state health departments either as regards sanitation or food and water." The A. A. A. statement continued:

"At the moment, there is no regulation or supervision whatever of these establishments. The number of complaints forthcoming indicate clearly that in a great many instances they brains and beauty and a decided love for home life.

Lester Davis is convinced that the modern athletic girl is as strong as she looks since last Friday evening. "Ike" attended a wiener roast at the Mountain View Park, Mt. Holly Springs, that evening and during the course of a game of tag ring collided with a young lady with disastrous results. The girl was unhurt but he had his nose broken.

are not equipped to take care adequately of the travelling public. In many instances the conditions do not come anywhere near modern sanitary requirements.

"In too many cases, the 'room and bath' advertised simply means one dilapidated bath in a house of ten rooms. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, the tourist who enters such places has no knowledge whatever of who is running them, what previous sickness the place may have harbored, or whether he can depend on getting pure food and untainted water. The situation is aggravated by 'Gyp' outfits which start many unqualified people in the business of catering to motorists by selling them signs that mislead the motorist as to the character of the place.

"No rule of health is better established than that which requires the supervision and licensing of hotels and restaurants doing business with the public. Surely, when there are so many millions travelling the highways and subjected to the danger that may lurk in unsupervised and unlicensed boarding houses, the day's at hand when the states must take cognizance of the situation.

Water Often Bad

"It will prove to the advantage of all concerned because it would increase public confidence in such boarding houses as pass muster with the state health authorities and put out of business those that do not reach the necessary health standards. There is no doubt whatever that out of every ten people who fall victims to sickness while touring, nine of them can attribute it to bad food or tainted water received in roadside lodgings.

"Motorists by and large have learned to shy clear of untested roadside water because of the campaign of education conducted by health officials and by motor clubs. Too often, however, they overlook the fact that water supplied by the poor type of boarding house may be more dangerous than the roadside spring on which their is no 'seal of safety' sign."

Refuse to be ill. Never tell people you are ill; never own it to yourself. Illness is one of these things which a man should resist on principle, at the onset.
